The Brown Skin Girl project

The song Brown Skin Girl by Beyoncé is the inspiration for a special campaign from Dutch grounds. The Brown Skin Girl project is intended to give black women a stage and to celebrate the color of their skin. That's why on Friday 25 October there is a photo and video exhibition taking place in The Station in Amsterdam. This exhibition will be opened by art curator and presenter Stephanie Afrifa. With the impressive track, Beyoncé encourages brown skinned girls to be proud of the color of their skin in a culture where lighter skin is considered the ideal of beauty and is often dominant in media, fashion and literature.
